Scattering and nuclear structure with oscillator basis

A. M. Shirokov

Moscow State University, Russia

Harmonic oscillator provides a natural basis for nuclear structure studies. I discuss the J-matrix formalism in scattering theory and its reformulation as a Lanczos algorithm which makes it possible to solve direct and inverse scattering problems with oscillator basis, construction of a high-quality JISP NN interaction and nuclear structure applications.